THE TORONTO GOSPELS

THERE is in the library of the University of Toronto a Greek manuscript of the four gospels, written on parchment in a minute cursive hand. The manuscript was written probably in the late eleventh or early twelfth century, and is of especial interest from the fact that it does not appear in any of the published lists of gospel cursives, either Gregory's, von Soden's, or Scrivener's, and its existence seems to have been quite unknown hitherto to the workers in the textual field. Nine gospel cursives are known to exist in America, and of these only two are complete in the original hand. A tenth, the Codex Torontonensis, as its former owner named it, must now be added to the list, and take its place among the known and registered manuscripts of the Greek gospels.

The Codex Torontonensis was exhibited with printed Bibles and manuscript facsimiles in an exhibition held at Toronto in connection with the Tercentenary of the King James Version, under the auspices of the Upper Canada Bible Society, February 13–25, 1911. Through the courtesy of my friend Ernest W. Parsons, a printed catalog of this exhibition reached me, and an effort was immediately made to gain an opportunity to examine the manuscript. At the request of Professor Burton, Director of the Libraries of the University, President Falconer and Librarian Langton, with great courtesy, promptly forwarded the manuscript to Chicago for full examination. Some results of that examination are here presented.

The manuscript formerly belonged to a well-known clergyman and writer of Toronto, the late Rev. Canon Henry Scadding, who, at his death in 1901, left his library to the University of Toronto. It appears from inquiries very kindly undertaken by Mr. Parsons and Professor J. L. Gilmour of Toronto, that Dr. Scadding purchased the manuscript from an English dealer more than twenty years ago. The binding had probably previously been restored with a new back, uniting the old worm-eaten leather-covered boards, and lettered Quatuor Evangelia M.S. Graec. Saec. XII, and Dr. Scadding had the name Codex Torontonensis stamped upon the outer case with which he protected it. A special interest attaches to Dr. Scadding's codex as the first Greek manuscript of the four gospels to appear in Canada.

The codex consists of 226 leaves, in twenty-nine quires. These are made in the usual Greek manner, with eight leaves in each quire, except the 14th (of six) and 23d (of four), and are numbered in the lower left-hand corner of the first recto. The leaves measure cmm. 13 by 15.4. The parchment is not very thin, and the book with its thick board covers makes a stout little volume 8 cmm. in thickness. There is appended to it a group of five quires, four of 7 and one of 6 leaves, or 34 in all, inscribed in a much later hand with the synaxarium and the menology. There are three coarse parchment fly leaves, one at the beginning and two at the end of the whole, which thus contains 263 parchment leaves. The writing is in single columns, in the gospels of 18 lines. The lines are carefully ruled, the writing depending from the lines. The margins contain the section and canon numbers, and the chapter numbers and titles. There are frequent marginal initials in gold over red. A later hand has added lection numbers and titles and, at the upper right-hand corner of each recto, the name of the evangelist.

The manuscript is not dated in the first hand, but a comparison with facsimiles of dated Greek cursives in the Bibliothèque Nationale published by Omont strongly favors a date toward the close of the eleventh century, or early in the twelfth. The hand of the Paris Psalter dated 1070 (Bibl. Nat. MS grec 164) closely resembles that of the Toronto manuscript, which must have been written in the same general period.

The contents of the manuscript are as follows. In an illuminated border, fol. 1*a*, τὸ κατὰ ματθαῖον ἅγ(ιον) ἐναγγέλιον, with pictures (1.2 cm. in diameter) of the four evangelists ὁ ἅ(γιος) ματθ(αῖος), ὁ ἅ(γιος) μάρκο(ς), ὁ ἅ(γιος) λουκᾶς, ὁ ἅ(γιος) ἰω(άννης) ὁ θεολό(γος). Below, κατ(ὰ) ματθαῖον ἅγ(ιον) ἐναγγέλ(ιον). The Gospel of Matthew follows, in 68 chapters, 359 sections, foll. 1*a*–64*a*. A later hand has also marked 121 lessons, with αρχη and τελος in the text, numbers in the margin, and titles at top or bottom of the page.

The 48 chapter titles for Mark, τοῦ κατ(ὰ) μάρκον ἐναγγε(λίου) τὰ κεφά(λαια), in red, follow, foll. 65*a*–66*a*, and then the Gospel of Mark, entitled (in an illuminated border) τὸ κατὰ μάρκον ἅγιον καὶ σεπτὸν ἐναγγέλιον, and below, τὸ κατ(ὰ) μάρκον ἅγ(ιον) ἐναγγέλ(ιον) (fol. 67*a*), in 48 chapters, 241 sections, foll. 67*a*–107*a*. The later hand above mentioned has marked and entitled 70 lessons.

The 83 chapter titles for Luke, τοῦ κατὰ λουκᾶν ἐναγγελίου τὰ κεφάλαια, in red, follow, foll. 108*a*–110*a*, and then the Gospel of Luke, τὸ κατὰ λουκᾶν ἅγιον ἐναγγέλιον, foll. 111*a*–177*a*, in 342 sections and 83 chapters. The later hand has indicated 116 lessons.

The 18 chapter titles for John, τοῦ κατὰ ἰω(άννην) ἁγίου εὐαγγελ(ίου) τὰ κεφάλαια, appear in red on fol. 178*a*, b. The Gospel of John, τὸ κατὰ ἰωάννην ἅγ(ιον) εὐαγγέλ(ιον), headed by a picture of Christ with a nimbus and a book (IC XC), follows, foll. 179*a*–226*b*. The late hand has marked 73 lessons, some of which have been retouched by one still later. This is the end of the more ancient part of the manuscript.

There follow, in a rude and much later hand, perhaps the same that marked the lessons, (1) πίναξ ἀκριβὴ(ς) τούτ(ου) τοῦ εὐαγγελίου, foll. 227*a*–247*b*; (2) μηνολόγιον σὺν θεῷ ἁγίῳ (Sept. 1—Aug. 31), foll. 248*a*–260*a*; concluding with, foll. 259*a*–260*a*, Εὐαγγέλια διάφορα Εἰς μνήμας ἁγίων. On fol. 260*b*, in a still later hand, is the long dated note which is given below (p. 8). Other rude Greek scrawls, ancient or recent, occupy the fly leaves.

In point of text, the Toronto codex is, like most cursives, fundamentally Syrian. Yet a considerable proportion of excellent early readings will be observed among its variants, and in one point its evidence becomes very interesting. The pericope (John 7:53—8:11) is omitted from its text, but another hand a century or more later (perhaps in the thirteenth ?) has most interestingly supplied the text of the passage in the margins. In the subsequent trimming of the leaves some few letters of this writing were cut away, but the passage is quite complete enough to enable us to judge the character of the manuscript from which the missing pericope was supplied. The pericope clearly allies itself textually with the sixth ($\mu^6$) of the seven types distinguished by von Soden (Schriften des N.T., pp. 507–8). Not a few cursives omit the pericope; Tischendorf's apparatus suggests that, of the cursives known to him, five out of six contained the passage as a part of John.

The unusual title of Mark, τὸ κατὰ μάρκον ἅγιον καὶ σεπτὸν εὐαγγέλιον, is a matter of interest. It does not appear in von Soden's list of gospel titles (Schriften des N.T., p. 295), where seven types of gospel title are distinguished.

At the top of fol. 177*a*, the last page of Luke, an erasure of 25 letters seems to prove that the clause καὶ τὰ ἐπίλοιπα ἔδωκεν αὐτοῖς originally stood here (Luke 24:43*b*) in the manuscript, and in its parent. This curious accretion is attested by KΠ* and a small group of cursives, and it must be observed that the text of the manuscript frequently, though not constantly, coincides with K, Π*, or KΠ. The lost Medicaeus, formerly numbered 42 by Gregory, had this reading, and, with AKΠ and the Toronto codex, the strange ἐλούετο for κατέβαινεν, John 5:4, but other particulars show that the Toronto manuscript cannot be identified with it. Nor can the manuscript be identified with the one sold by Hoskier to Quaritch some twenty years ago (Gregory, 1278), nor with any other recorded cursive once known but now lost, although Gregory's old number 103, a manuscript used by Curcellaeus in his edition of 1658, shows many readings with the Toronto manuscript.

The character of the text of the Toronto Gospels makes it desirable to follow the description of the manuscript with a full collation of it. My especial thanks are due Dean R. Wickes and Ernest W. Parsons, New Testament Fellows in the University of Chicago, for help in carrying through and verifying the collation, in preparing which I have myself gone minutely through the whole manuscript twice. Martin Sprengling, formerly New Testament Fellow in the University, has aided in the reading of the following late and faulty subscription at the end of the manuscript, fol. 260 b.

τέλος ἤληφεν ἐνταῦ(θα) τὸ παρὸν βιβλίον εἰς τὸ ἔτος

This subscription must have been copied from an earlier manuscript. It is badly written, in a hand unlike any other in the manuscript, and is full of itacisms. The date it seems to give, 6301 (=A.D. 793), is much too early for any part of the manuscript, and probably the colophon has nothing to do with the text of the gospels, or their exemplar.

Professor Gregory in a recent letter proposes the number 2321 to designate the Toronto manuscript in his lists.

The collation is based on Estienne's edition of 1550, as reprinted by Lloyd and Sanday (Oxford, 1889), this being taken as a fixed text, widely accessible. It will be understood that tr means "transpose so as to read." All spellings have been taken account of, but not all matters of accent, aspiration, or capitalization. In several instances a marginal capital has been left to be supplied by the hand which supplied such letters in red and gold, but has been omitted where it belonged, and sometimes even supplied where it did not (Matt. 9:17; Mark 6:27; Luke 9:9; 23:15; John 6:3, 63; 10:41, etc.; cf. Luke 2:13). The chief marginal corrections—Luke 7:6 (εἰσέλθῃς); 19:30 (ἀνθρώπων); John 5:12 (ἠρώτησαν . . . . περιπάτει), the pericope, John 7:53—8:11, and John 21:2—are in different hands. In general, where the text departs significantly from the Received Text, it is to agree with the better manuscripts; that is, the manuscript is decidedly better than the generality of cursives.
